Scurlock House
1311 Douglass Veenue
Highland Beach, Maryland

C. 1899

Private Residence

The Scurlock House is a two storey, gable roofed cottage with a large enclosed porch in the hsitorically black town of Highland Beach. It is one of the set of original houses that have retained their turn of the century style and architectural elements. It is a fine example of physical planning and design as demonstrated by African American developers in that era.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Scurlock House is a tow storey gable roofed, frame dwelling with an enclosed porch that encircles three views. The house is finished with shingles and rests on a pier foundation.

Highland Beach , Maryland is located about ten miles south of Annapolis on the Chesapeake Bay. The Scurlock House is located on the block which is bounded by Douglass Avenue on the north, Wilders Avenue on the east, the Corporate Limits of Highland Beach on the south and Walnut Drive on the west. The lot is situated in a wooded area of the beach oommunity where vegetation is quite dense. The land gently slopes towards the Chesapeake Bay and is between two large creeks.

The house is supported by a pier foundation which is covered with a lattice finish constructed of wooden boards. On the northern view, which is the fron of the house, an eight bay porch which is enclosed with screening, can be observed. The original windows have been replaced with dougle hung, single pane windows throughout the house. A shed roof dormer extends from the second storey of the eastern view.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Highland Beach, Maryland is a historic black town that was founded by the son of Frederick Douglass. The town was conceived by Haley R. Douglass in the late nineteenth century to be a resort community for prominent blacks. Highland Beach is a unique existing reminder of town planning and architectural history as it relates to vernacular and high style design as exhibited by black people. Most of the architecture in Highland Beach is located on the original sites and building expansions were performed within a ten to fifteen year time frame. This provides us with a concise history of design, space planning, and architecture in a homogeneous, extant community.

All of the cottages that were constructed prior to 1930 are important elements related to town planning and design. It is important that these houses retain their originality in terms of plan design, lot orientation, interior decoration, and architectural aesthetics in order to preserve the concept of space and the dynamics of community development in this historic black town.
